DRAW EST. 150-200 In addition to the tri-state area,
GB has a solid following in VT, PA, MA, OH, CT, & upstate NY

When Brooklyn collective Gentleman Brawlers performs, it's more than a concert: It's an electrifying experience. Led by creative duo Becca Fox and Matt Walsh, the band channels musical inspo Talking Heads with their distinct brand of Afrofunk and indie dance music. A visual as well as auditory feast on stage, Canadian blog The Revue calls GB "tantalizing and intoxicating."

Gentleman Brawlers loves to engage an audience, and the audience loves them right back.

Our Mantra: "If you can MOVE you can DANCE!"

Fox, leading an expandable cast of dancers, creates thrilling, immersive live shows. A multi-disciplinary artist of Haitian and Jewish descent, Fox embodies what it means to be mixed, taking virtuosic dance turns in an eclectic range of styles from rhythm tap and West African to pop-modern contemporary. With dance performances at the Metropolitan Opera and numerous European TV ad campaigns to her credit, Fox brings a potent, incendiary presence to the stage that Arts Council of Greater New Haven described as "...airborne...half-vocalist, half-bird."

"Mesmerizing" with "slick musical chemistry" – WNYC's The Greene Space

About Gentleman Brawlers:

GB has two distinct musical incarnations - live and in studio - that elevate and inform each other. Through a sonic blend of disco-based horn lines, sticky highlife guitar, and polyrhythms from West Africa, Trinidad, and Brazil, GBs' live shows ignite a community-based, improvisational energy; audience engagement is integral to the band's identity. In studio, the band will often reimagine their songs through an experimental EDM lens. Whether the audience is on the dance floor or pressing play, Gentleman Brawlers always delivers an exuberant, celebratory experience.

Their core stage lineup includes Matt Walsh (keyboards, guitar, production), Becca Fox (vocals, synths, dance), Quincie Hydock (vocals, dance), Jeremy Warren (drums), Trevor Brown (bass), Tree Palmedo (trumpet) and Nick Marziani (saxophone).
